Letter from the Directors

What we wear tells the world something about who we are. Whether it's a wedding ring, a shirt with our company logo, or a scarf that was knitted by a beloved aunt, our garments carry deep meaning. Paul and Timothy use this analogy in Colossians 3:12 when they remind the church to "clothe yourselves with compassion, kindness, humility, gentleness and patience." This character of Christ is not just worn—it's woven into the work we do together.

Thank you for fashioning a hopeful future with us through your support, prayers, and involvement with World Renew. By serving and walking alongside those in need, you are wearing the character of Christ—recovering dignity, healing, and hope.

We believe that no matter their situation, every person should have the opportunity to design a new story. World Renew works through churches and Christian partners to help families and community members in 30 countries around the world improve their lives and livelihoods. The interwoven threads of our integrated programming incorporate relief, development, and justice work together so that participants can access medical care, education, food, and other life-changing essentials, while long-term inequities are also addressed.

If Loma Betty, a 20-year-old mother in Uganda, hadn't connected with World Renew partners during the complicated birth of her first child, her story could have been very different. After a World Renew village health team member skillfully delivered Betty's baby at home, a motorcycle voucher program made it possible for her to be rushed to a health centre for life-saving care. "I was scared of losing my daughter," said Betty's mother. "May God continue to bless World Renew and everyone who makes it possible to support mothers like her." Betty, her health team, World Renew, and you make up the fabric of Christ's community who made a life-and-death difference for this family.

And that's just one story. In this report, you will find many instances of how World Renew has offered opportunities for positive, permanent change to 720,633 participants in 1,449 communities in 2025.

Thank you for making this work of mercy and justice possible as we "put on love" (Colossians 3:14) and serve Christ's people.

With compassion and hope,

Carol & Mike

The LORD is good to all; he has compassion on all he has made.

Integrated Approach

Areas of Impact

World Renew’s community development work is rooted in the belief that lasting change begins with dignity and partnership. We walk alongside families and communities as they weave new stories of hope and resilience. Our approach is holistic and participatory—community members identify their own priorities and lead the process of transformation. Through programs in agriculture, health, and livelihoods, World Renew equips local leaders and partner organizations to build capacity and strengthen systems that sustain growth. This means families grow nutritious food, access clean water, improve health outcomes, and secure income for education and housing. Every initiative reflects our commitment to restoring right relationships—with God, creation, our neighbours, and ourselves. With every project, together we create a legacy of compassion and justice that will bring hope for generations.

“May your priests be clothed with your righteousness; may your faithful people sing for joy.”

PSALM 132:9

AT JUST 16, ASHA was married off by her father to ease the family’s financial burden. But without a dowry, Asha paid a heavy price. Her husband, who struggled with alcohol addiction, and her in-laws subjected her to relentless abuse. When she became pregnant, Asha fled back to her parents’ home, only to face harsh criticism and blame. She felt trapped, helpless, and alone.

Like many girls who marry young, Asha never finished school and lacked the skills to earn a living. She took on occasional day work, but her future seemed hopeless. Then, in May 2022, World Renew’s local partner launched a Food Security and Resilience Project (FSRP) in her village. Asha joined a women’s savings group supported by the project, contributing regularly and attending weekly meetings. Her perseverance and vulnerability inspired the group to select her for poultry-rearing training facilitated by World Renew’s partner.

In 2024, Asha completed the training and received five chickens to start her business. Within three months, those five chickens multiplied to 35. By December, she sold 15 chickens, earning 5,000 taka ($58 CAD/$42 USD). Today, Asha owns 25 chickens and plans to buy 10 more. Her income provides stability and her confidence has soared.

Now 28, Asha shares her knowledge with other women in her group. Encouraged by her success, they too are raising chickens and earning income. Asha’s joy comes from seeing others thrive. “I am thankful for the training and encouragement that helped me become self-reliant,” she says.

Life changed dramatically for 41-year-old Juma Kitabuka in September 2017 when an accident left him unable to walk. During his long recovery, Juma became isolated from his wife and four children. “For almost two to three years, no one ever visited me due to my condition,” Juma recalls. “That was my life.”

Everything began to change when World Renew’s local partner, Africa Inland Church Tanzania, visited Juma with a champion farmer from his community. This outreach was inspired by a global gender and social inclusion workshop organized by World Renew and implemented locally. The project focuses on improving food security and restoring dignity for marginalized households.

“The day they visited, I could not believe it,” Juma said. “I realized I am still a recognized person.”

World Renew provided Juma with training in vegetable gardening, along with cabbage seeds and a water pump. Soon, Juma planted over 300 cabbage seedlings. His garden flourished. “This project has brought happiness to my life because this garden has now become my family’s main source of income,” he shares.

Despite ongoing health challenges, Juma can now provide food and school supplies for his children. His optimism is contagious: “Step by step, all will be well.”

“You turned my wailing into dancing; you removed my sackcloth and clothed me with joy.”

Childhood stunting prevention

ONE NIGHT, TWENTY-YEAR-OLD LOMA BETTY was busy preparing for her first child—a precious baby to dress, swaddle, and cradle—when intense labour pains struck. She woke her mother, who had been a huge source of support since the baby’s father left. In their region of Uganda, poor road conditions and limited health-care options could make childbirth very dangerous. Would she receive help in time?

Thankfully, Betty was connected to local World Renew partners working to improve maternal and child health. A World Renew village health-team member was able to deliver the baby at home. Soon afterwards, Betty developed a serious complication related to her placenta. A motorcycle-voucher program made it possible for her to be rushed to a health centre for life-saving care. At last, both mother and child were safe to begin their beautiful new chapter.

“I was scared of losing my daughter,” said Betty’s mother with relief and joy. “May God continue to bless World Renew and everyone who makes it possible to support mothers like her.”

Betty is just one of four thousand mothers helped by World Renew’s maternal and child health programs in Uganda. Her family’s story might have had a very different outcome without the care of her health team, World Renew partners, and people like you. Through World Renew’s global network of generosity and hope, mothers and children are being lovingly wrapped in compassion – nurtured and protected so they can experience better health and thrive as God intends.

SAMINU, SAHEL REGION

Saminu, a devoted husband and father, worked hard to provide for his wife and two children. Farming was his main source of income, but his harvests were unpredictable and sometimes ruined by drought, flooding, or pests. Even in good years, he struggled to meet his family's basic needs.

Determined to be a good provider, Saminu traveled to a neighboring country for months at a time to earn extra income. But the sacrifice was painful. He worried about his family's safety while he was away, and despite his efforts, he still couldn't earn enough. During one trip, however, he learned how to sew. This new skill that sparked a dream: to start a tailoring business at home. He believed this could keep his family together and provide stability, but he lacked the money to buy a sewing machine.

That dream began to take shape when World Renew's local partner introduced Village Savings and Loans Associations in his community. At first, Saminu was hesitant about joining. "But when I saw the achievements of others, I also joined with the aim of one day buying myself a sewing machine," he says.

Through regular meetings and group savings, members accessed small loans. Saminu borrowed enough to buy sewing supplies—threads, needles, and fabric—which he sold for profit. His small business grew, and he continued saving.

At the end of the year, Saminu received his share of the group's savings. "I ended up with 7,760 FCFA (about $150 USD/$190 CAD), which enabled me to achieve my dream of purchasing my own sewing machine and starting my own," he says. "Thanks to this initiative, I'm now able to provide for my family, so they can eat well, have clean clothes and, above all, I'm able to pay for my children's school supplies. I achieved my dream. I no longer have to leave home to find work."

ELISABETH, ZAMBIA

"I joined the Self-Help Group and started putting in the 5 kwacha every week ... and it grew! When I got my loan, I started selling charcoal at my house. With the profits, I would buy food and feed myself and my dependents. I was able to send my child to school. I would buy soap. I'm very grateful for this project because before the group, life was extremely hard. After the group, hunger at home has ended. I've started helping my dependents. I'm still selling the charcoal. I'm even starting to look better because I have bought some lotion so I can take care of myself."

"She is clothed with strength and dignity; she can laugh at the days to come."

Advocacy

While Justice and Peace have long been fundamental aspects of how World Renew works, the Justice and Peace team was formed more recently to more effectively confront the systemic injustices and conflicts that deteriorate human dignity and hinder sustainable development worldwide. Grounded in the biblical call of Proverbs 31:8, the team embraces its mission to stand with those silenced by poverty, discrimination, violence, and exclusion. This work reflects World Renew's mandate to act justly and live out compassion in tangible ways, aligned with global Sustainable Development Goals.

Humanitarian aid alone cannot dismantle the structural barriers that perpetuate poverty, food insecurity, gender-based violence, environmental degradation, and displacement. These challenges persist because of inadequate laws, weak governance, systemic discrimination, and limited resources. Without intentional justice work, these root causes remain unaddressed. Clothed With Compassion, World Renew commits to restoring right relationships—between people, communities, and systems—through justice-centred interventions.

The Justice & Peace Team leads initiatives in five key areas:

- Justice assessments: collaborating with ministry teams to identify systemic gaps and guide advocacy priorities.
- We help local partners learn the skills they need to create and manage programs designed to make communities stronger and better able to handle challenges.
- Education and public engagement: mobilizing communities and supporters through workshops and advocacy campaigns to recognize injustice and act collectively.
- Direct advocacy: partnering with grassroots networks and global stakeholders to influence policy and amplify marginalized voices.
- Peace interventions: facilitating trauma healing, community dialogues, and social contracts to address conflict and promote reconciliation.

At its core, this team exists because speaking up for the oppressed is a biblical mandate—and pursuing justice is essential to transforming lives and systems.

WHEN JOSEPH'S FATHER migrated to Spain, he left behind family and responsibility. For Joseph, the emotional toll was devastating. Angry and hurt, he became rebellious, fell behind in school, and repeated seventh grade three times. Living with his mother, newborn brother, and stepfather, Joseph felt abandoned and hopeless. In 2024, with encouragement from his grandmother, Joseph joined Strong Communities, a program facilitated by World Renew's local partner in Honduras, Association for a Just Society (ASJ). This initiative addresses systemic issues like domestic violence, broken homes, and community violence: root causes that undermine dignity and peace.

Program staff identified Joseph as high-risk, but through weekly sessions on preventing violence, self-care, and leadership, Joseph began to change. His family noticed a marked improvement in his behaviour. He showed respect, tolerance, and a sense of belonging. Psychological support revealed Joseph's resilience and openness to growth. He learned to manage emotions and embrace new challenges.

"I began to feel less angry and more self-confident," Joseph says. "I've learned to deal with negative emotions and support my friends and family. My perspective on life has changed."

A WORLDWIDE SNAPSHOT OF DISASTER RESPONSE IN 2024/25

OVER THE PAST YEAR, the world has continued to face immense challenges such as hunger, conflict, violent storms, and disasters. More than 700 million people around the world are experiencing hunger and 117 million have been displaced, in addition to the many others in tenuous situations made worse by weather or political events.

Yet, even amid hardship, there is hope. Thanks to God's grace and the faithful support of our partners, donors, and staff, World Renew was able to reach over 382,018 people with life-saving disaster assistance. In moments of deep vulnerability, we were able to offer practical help and a reminder that they are not forgotten.

We are especially grateful for our local partners, whose dedication and presence allow us to extend our reach and respond with compassion, and in a timely manner. Thanks to our network of partners, we can respond quickly and where most needed.

"Let us put aside the deeds of darkness and put on the armor of light."

ROMANS 13:12

SUDAN AND SOUTH SUDAN In Sudan and South Sudan, World Renew has partnered with ZOA and Alongside Hope to provide emergency food assistance to vulnerable families experiencing displacement as a result of the conflict in Sudan which has forced families to flee the violence and growing food insecurity. In South Sudan 9,500 people received five months of food assistance through cash transfers. In Sudan 14,700 people received monthly food vouchers for five months, which can be redeemed at a local vendor for millet, lentils, oil, and salt.

TANZANIA World Renew and our partner African Inland Church Tanzania implemented two 5-year projects focused on agriculture production and economic recovery. These projects have reached over 20,000 participants through a conservation agriculture program focused on helping communities combat the challenges of dry and erratic weather. Participants were involved in nutrition and marketing training as well as village savings and loans groups.

HAITI In Haiti, as much of the population faces civil unrest and food insecurity, World Renew worked with partners World Concern and Food for the Hungry to launch three projects to provide cash, emergency food, psychosocial support, and shelter to the most vulnerable families.

NIGERIA In Nigeria, over the last year we have worked with ZOA to support families, including those internally displaced, who are experiencing food insecurity. We have reached 48,000 individuals with cash assistance, food, or food vouchers. One of these projects helped to bridge the immediate needs of families with their longer-term flourishing by providing 1,800 households with support to help build and strengthen their own businesses.

MYANMAR In Myanmar, World Renew supports multiple projects with local partners to respond to the earthquake that hit in March 2025, leaving many people homeless. The projects reached over 13,000 people with emergency assistance varying from shelter and sanitation kits to emergency food aid.

RAPID RESPONSES Rapid Response projects provide smaller funding amounts of approximately $15,000 USD for local partners to immediately respond to basic needs to alleviate human suffering, improve lives, and maintain human dignity in response to smaller scale disasters and crises. World Renew was able to launch 16 rapid response projects in 11 countries, supporting 23,000 individuals with various interventions. Many of these response were implemented to fill the gaps in international humanitarian funding seen in 2024 and 2025. We provided support to partners with cash transfers, training and awareness so people could expand their ways of earning a living, and emergency assistance in various disasters.

Disaster Response Services in North America

A SNAPSHOT OF NORTH AMERICAN DISASTER RESPONSE IN 2025

IN 2024, GOD'S LOVE WAS ON DISPLAY across North America through the work of World Renew's Disaster Response Services (DRS). When disasters ripped through communities and homes, World Renew's DRS teams and volunteers stepped in to mend what was torn and repair what was broken. Each project involved restoring homes, rebuilding lives, and wrapping survivors in the tangible care of Christ's compassion.

In March 2025, northern Michigan was hit with a once-in-a-generation ice storm, which caused power outages, downed trees, damaged forests, and negatively impacted the local timber industry. DRS clean-up volunteer teams helped the region by removing debris and cleaning up brush in Gaylord, Michigan.

In the following months, many church youth groups spent a week of their summer vacation serving disaster-impacted communities with DRS. This included students from First Cutlerville Christian Reformed Church who repaired homes for families like the Davises* in Hendersonville, North Carolina.

When Hurricane Helene's floodwaters rushed towards the community in 2024, the single mother and disabled son retreated to the second floor of their home. But the severity of the floodwaters left them stuck there for four days.

Along with this frightening experience, their home also sustained severe damage from the storm. DRS volunteers helped the Davis family in their rebuilding journey by installing new flooring, painting walls, and assembling and installing new cabinetry.

Hurricane Ian left its mark across Southeast Florida in 2022, impacting countless lives. This includes Bette, a homeowner in South Sarasota County. The Category-4 storm's intense rainfall seeped into Bette's back room, damaging its walls.

Two years after the storm, Bette's back room was still unattended to. It seemed like her recovery needs were forgotten. But, behind the scenes, God was making a way, helping DRS partner with the Sarasota Long-Term Recovery Group to repair homes like Bette's.

At first, Bette was hesitant. Navigating her space in her wheelchair was essential, and she worried about how the volunteer work would unfold within her home.

But after a few days, Bette began to relax.

She saw that DRS volunteers genuinely cared about her needs and were willing to work around her schedule. As they removed damaged wall panelling and insulation, then reinsulated and drywalled the ceiling, laughter and prayer filled the air. Bette watched with gratitude as her home was restored.

Refugee Sponsorship And Resettlement

WITH YOUR SUPPORT, 183 REFUGEES ARRIVED AND RESETTLED IN CANADA THROUGH WORLD RENEW AND 32 SPONSORING GROUPS SUBMITTED NEW REFUGEE SPONSORSHIP APPLICATIONS FOR 135 REFUGEES.

Churches across Canada have opened their doors, helping more than 11,500 refugees since 1979 find safety, dignity, and a new beginning. But the impact of this welcome extends far beyond any arrival date, often becoming a lifelong connection.

After 1975, many Vietnamese families fled their country, mostly on boats, in search of safety. Compelled by the Biblical call to “welcome the stranger” (Hebrews 13:2), Maranatha Christian Reformed Church in Edmonton, Alberta, stepped forward in faith. The church sponsored about 65 refugees, walking alongside each family as they rebuilt their lives in Canada.

Decades later, many of those families still live in Edmonton. Some have built businesses, raised families, and become essential parts of their communities. But the connection to the church that first welcomed them never faded.

Jack Barzilay, a sponsor from the church, remembers one young man arriving at the church and gently helping his elderly father up the steps. The young man explained that his father had been one of the refugees welcomed by the church many years earlier. His father had built a successful food store business, which is now a family company with seven stores across Alberta and British Columbia. As he entered his later years, he felt a deep desire to return to the place that had first offered his family safety, kindness, and hope.

The father presented a cheque to the church in the amount of $30,000, insisting they accept it as a gift of gratitude and remembrance. Today, part of that gift is helping support Maranatha CRC’s next refugee sponsorship in partnership with World Renew. One generation supported the next, carrying on a legacy rooted in Christ’s love. This is the power of welcome.

Community Contributions

The involvement of faithful communities in Canada and the US are helping to make food security possible for those in places like Honduras.

Students in Grades 7–9 at Lacombe Christian School spent 30 hours experiencing hunger firsthand this school year. Their FastForward Challenge, held every two years, invites middle school students to skip meals as they learn about global hunger and respond to God’s call to feed the hungry. Using World Renew’s resources and pledge forms, the school streamlined donations through cash and e-transfer, making fundraising simple and effective.

Each student participates twice during their time in Grades 7–9, making it a sustained and effective experience for everyone involved.

The event began with a kickoff chapel where students watched videos highlighting the realities of famine and the difference their efforts make through World Renew’s work. After enjoying a “last meal” provided by the student council—often pasta, pizza, or hotdogs—the fast began at 1:00

PM. Students went home and faced the challenge of skipping snacks and meals, often while sitting with family members who were eating. The following day was a regular school day, but after classes, students gathered for a wrap-up celebration with games, music, and inflatables. At 7:00 PM, parent volunteers served a light “break-the-fast” meal, easing students back into eating before they returned home.

The goal is to make the event engaging while preserving its purpose: helping students understand what hunger feels like and why their efforts matter. As organizer Michele Noort, a Grade 9 teacher, explains, “We try to make our event desirable to do but also keep in mind that it should not be easy; this is how many people live.”

Their efforts paid off. In 2024–25, students raised an incredible $11,457 CAD, all directed toward World Renew’s World Hunger initiatives.

Some students shared powerful reflections. Hunter said, “I did the fast because it would help people who didn’t have three meals a day like we do.” Brogan added, “It sounded fun and I like raising money for other people.” Others described the fast as challenging and eye-opening, helping them appreciate how easily we take food for granted.

The FastForward experience is more than a fundraiser—it’s a call to action. Isaiah 58 says, “Is not this the kind of fasting I have chosen: to loose the chains of injustice and untie the cords of the yoke, to set the oppressed free and break every yoke?” Whether through a FastForward event, a World Hunger offering, or a creative fundraiser, every effort helps provide food and hope to families around the world.

Transitions

Throughout our 60+ years of ministry, there have been moments when faithful stewardship has meant closing a country office. This year, after much prayer, discernment, and thoughtful planning, World Renew went through some significant realignment that included the restructuring of several departments across the organization. We also made the difficult decision to conclude our programming in Senegal, Sierra Leone, and Mozambique. These closures reflect our commitment to our strategic goals and best practices in governance and partnership.

We honour the incredible work that has taken place in these countries through World Renew as we have witnessed families and partners gaining skills, confidence, and hope for the future. We trust that God will continue to guide them, and we invite you to join us in praying for these communities and for our dedicated staff and partners who have completed their journey with World Renew. We trust that God will continue to guide them, and we invite you to join us in praying for them and for our former partners in these countries.

While change can be challenging, it is also an opportunity to grow. These decisions strengthen our foundation for future impact and position us to respond more effectively to hunger, conflict, and poverty in the world's most vulnerable regions.

A STORY FROM SENEGAL

World Renew has a long history of responding to HIV and AIDS through churches and Christian partners. In Senegal, for example, churches have been equipped to treat people with love and dignity. Leaders and members have learned to speak openly about HIV, reduce stigma, and support those living with the disease in practical ways.

Churches did not always have the courage they needed to respond this way. Just a few decades ago, many people affected by HIV and AIDS were turned away or neglected even by their family members. In 1991, Wya Hasselblad, who studied with World Renew in Senegal at the time, recalls a young girl who approached her with a request. When she asked her father for HIV, church elders refused to help. Wya Hasselblad, an active member of the church, stepped in to help. She and other staff to the church provided support and care. This led to the creation of a community health center, which helped other community members. World Renew supported HIV and AIDS with well-

...ing it possible for God's children to live with dignity and hope against HIV and AIDS.

OPPORTUNITIES AND STRATEGIC PRIORITIES

There are more people in crisis in the world today than ever before. The number of people facing acute food insecurity was 295.3 million last year—a number that has nearly tripled in the last decade. By expanding our presence in fragile and underserved regions, World Renew intends to reach those who need help most and respond where the challenges are greatest. Sharing knowledge and using data more effectively will strengthen programs, improve collaboration, and show the real difference your support makes. Increasing direct involvement in projects will allow us to act quickly, deliver lasting results, and open doors to new funding that multiplies impact. We also have the chance to lead in humanitarian response, recovery, and peacebuilding, bringing hope and stability to places torn by disaster and conflict. Embracing technology and data-driven strategies will help us make smarter decisions and clearly demonstrate the life-changing outcomes your generosity makes possible.

While our partnerships in global alliances help us respond to urgent needs through network peers, we know there is more we can do. In many crisis-affected regions, our presence has been limited. To remain strong and effective, we need to grow our capacity, reduce reliance on others, and position World Renew as a leader and valued partner in delivering hope and transformation where it matters most. The World Renew team intends to focus on agility, accountability, and sustainability, ensuring we are ready and equipped to serve the most vulnerable. By strengthening systems, building skilled teams, and creating innovative solutions, we will continue to adapt and lead in a changing world. Together, with your partnership, we can bring life-saving aid, restore dignity, and help communities rebuild for a brighter, more resilient future.

Financial Information

This year, your donations were invested into the work of World Renew in ways that embody good stewardship while improving quality and effectiveness.

82% of our budget went to our programs. This includes our support for community development initiatives, like supplies, professional expertise, and training. It also includes response efforts for disasters, whether within the United States or around the world. These could consist of food items, vouchers, or cash transfers in cases where markets are active. Finally, our programs also include our education and justice initiatives as we work for equality and awareness.

9% of our budget went to administration and general expenses. From our Executive Directors, who oversee our strategic direction, to our finance, information systems, and human resources teams, our staff is devoted to high standards, transparency, and continuous improvement. These all feed into good stewardship.

9% of our budget went to fundraising. Telling supporters like you about our work is essential to us, ensuring we provide updates and clarity about how these contributions are changing the story of poverty around the world. Gaining exposure to the work of World Renew, long trusted by some but unfamiliar to others, is also a key dynamic of our planning for the future. Through online presence, advertising, and providing resources for schools and churches, we aim to draw new interest and excitement about this powerful and transformative work, sustaining it as long as it's needed.
